Childhood Cancer...

One Foot at a Time!

Who Benefits?

he UCLA Mattel Children's Cancer program is testing a non-pharmaceutical vaccine that neutralizes brain cancer cells in children through the immune system. Proceeds from the Optimist

Dads' Day Dash are dedicated to this important research program.

Pharmaceutical companies will not fund research without patent (profit) potential. The UCLA Mattel Children's Brain Cancer Program depends solely on community fundraising efforts like the Optimist Dads' Day Dash.

The Optimist International's Childhood Cancer Campaign works to build a future that values the health of young people. In the spirit of National Cancer Awareness Month, the Optimist Clubs of the San Fernando Valley and the Westwood UCLA Hospital Optimist Club are proud to offer the second 5K, 10K Run-Walk and 1K Kids Fun Run to celebrate Father's Day, June 13, 2009.

The event will support UCLA Mattel Children's Brain Cancer Program in its efforts to give children with recurring cancer a chance for normal lives. We hope that the Optimist Dads' Day Dash will generate more than the $20,000 needed to add a child with incurable brain cancer to this important research in the development of a valuable vaccine.

The Optimist Dads' Day Dash also supports the Kids Cancer Connection Foundation, which provides housing and support for children and their families while undergoing treatment at the UCLA Mattel Children's Cancer Program clinic.

Your participation in the Optimist Dads' Day Dash will help win the race against childhood brain cancer.

Thank you.
