

New Economics for Women's Tierra del Sol is an award winning mixed-use master planned community comprising 119 units of quality affordable housing, an adjacent state-of-the-art charter elementary school, and the 12,000 square foot Dennis P. Zine Community Center which provides educational and supportive services that help families build assets and become economically self-sufficient.

New Economics for Women
303 South Loma Drive
Los Angeles, CA 90017
(213) 483-2060
www.neweconomicsforwomen.org

Photo by Dan Scott

New Economics for Women

Cordially Invites you to the Grand Opening of the Dennis P. Zine Community Center

Please Join

Councilman Dennis P. Zine
Congressman Brad Sherman
State Senator Alex Padilla

Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa
Assemblyman Bob Blumenfield
Supervisor Zev Yaroslavsky

Charlie Beck
Los Angeles Chief of Police

Bruce D. Ackerman
Chairman, Board of Commissioners, Community Redevelopment Agency, City of Los Angeles

Richard L. Benbow
Los Angeles Community Development Department General Manager

Thursday, February 18, 2010
2:00 pm - 5:00 pm

Tierra del Sol
21400 Saticoy Avenue, Canoga Park, California 91303
RSVP by February 12, 2010 ~ (213) 483-2062
neweconomicsforwomen.rsvp@gmail.com

Developer

New Economics for Women
LCB Enterprises, LLC

Financing/Funder

Community Redevelopment Agency, City of Los Angeles
S. Mark Taper Foundation

Project Manager

Cheryl Bates

Architect

Hak Sik Son & Associates

Partners

NEW Academy Canoga Park
West Valley Community Development Corporation
Main Street Canoga Park

Services to be offered at the Community Center

Child Care Resource Center
Family SourceCenter Collaborative
New Economics for Women - lead agency
El Centro De Amistad
El Nido Family Centers
Independent Living Center of Southern California
Neighborhood Legal Services
New Directions for Youth

