The Department of Health and Human Services, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health, is pleased to announce the results of the 2014 National Health Interview Survey (NHIS). The survey provides information on the health status of the civilian noninstitutionalized population of the United States. The survey is conducted annually and is one of the largest and most comprehensive health surveys in the world. The survey covers a wide range of topics, including physical and mental health, functional status, and health care use. The survey is conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) and is a key source of information for public health and health care policy.
